HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO MS BREINIG TODAY!!!!

Question of the day

What should the underlined word be changed to?

Going to see a play is a cultural tradition that has been passed on for thousands of years. Although theater is a form of art and entertainment, it is also a highly competitive business, especially for playwrights. Many plays are written, but only a select few are produced and seen by the public, and often with strings attached. Playwright José Rivera is an example of a contemporary playwright that has fought for the right to have his work produced and seen in the way he intended it.
